

good cause for impeachment. But how did certain people know about the recent decision of the court? The question was asked a prominent attorney practicing before the court by THE HERALD correspondent: "They did not know what decision would be," was the reply. "You see the same questions that the Supreme Court was called upon to decide had been before State courts, United States district courts, and United States circuit courts, in all of which they had been decided in favor of the Hell people. The chances were, therefore, as a hundred to one, that the Supreme Court would decide the same way. That is all there is to it. The people who went into Salt Lake with their eyes upon the Supreme Court decision simply took those one hundred chances. You see they were practically operating upon a certainty."

THE THIRD DAY.

This, Latter-day Saints, in brief, is a glimpse of the great work of God, unto which you and I have been called. Yes, and also many that are now afar off. No wonder the apostles should say in their epistle "ours is no ordinary calling." Are we asleep that we can indifferently and carelessly sit down in the contemplation of these great events that are coming? Are we mad, are we blind, that we can devote ourselves to the pleasures and the follies and the ways of the world, with such a stern and awful, yet glorious prospect before us? Has not the Lord said, "I give not unto you to live after the manner of the world." And yet, how is it with us, brethren? How is it with us, sisters,—how, especially here in Salt Lake City? The line of demarcation seems at least to be growing thinner and thinner every day.

WHICH DIVIDE?—THE CHURCH OF GOD FROM THE EARTH. We seem to have thought that the command to gather out from Babylon was fulfilled when we sailed from the port of Liverpool,—from the islands of the sea,—and planted our feet upon this land of Joseph. But I think no one, with an honest heart, who heard the instructions of this, can fail to see that that command to gather out from Babylon has not merely a physical or a geographical significance, but more of a spiritual. We are commanded to be not like the world, but to set them an example that they shall not only be willing, but proud to follow.

Time would fail to enable one to even refer to the many of the signs of the times. And it behooves us to call a halt in our conduct, to obey the counsel of this epistle, examine our hearts, lay them bare before the eye of the Almighty, and ask him to search us and see if there is any iniquity within us to purge it out, even if we be humiliated in the dust of grief and sorrow. For far better is it to be disappointed, to be cast down here, to be humbled here, than to be cast into a hell and be chained for a thousand years.

On all sides Satan has spread his traps and his gloved baits of sin. Our youth, our young people, are invited upon the right hand and upon the left to come and partake of those things that though, they be sweet in their mouths, will be bitter within them; bitter, yea, and burning and destructive. We may well stop and heed the wise counsel of the servants of God; to the Holy Spirit which dwelleth not in unclean tabernacles, but which pointeth out the way of the pure in heart as a lamp shining brighter and brighter unto the perfect day. This is a day of the coming of Jesus Christ—the second advent of the King of kings. A work of preparation is now in progress. We are supposed by the heavens to have come here for that purpose—to be paying the way for that advent. We are the children of Abraham, and we are told that if we wish to prove our lineage, we must do the work of Abraham. What are those works? Unflinching, unquestioning obedience, unwavering faith in God Almighty; fearing not man, nor what man can do; but listening to the voice of the spirit within our own hearts and keeping the commandments which God hath given. If we are Abraham's children, we will do the works of Abraham, and not follow in the ways of the world. They are not our ancestors—they are not our proper lineage, although we have been permitted for a wise purpose to come through the lineage of the Gentiles. Their ways are not ours. We have been called to come out of them. Follow not after their ways, but to set them an example of righteousness. How will the heavens weep, if we fail to perform our mission? Yet the Son of God, in speaking of His disciples, said: "Ye are the salt of the earth; but if the salt hath lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted?" If this people should go back upon this mission and fail to perform it, what would become of the word of God. He has said that His work should stand forever. This, at least, is a comfort and an assurance to us that there is faith, that there is integrity, that there is enough faithfulness in this people to endure every trial; to endure every ordeal and perform the work which God has given us to do. But, because God has given this assurance, do we think we can sit down carelessly and go to sleep, with our work yet undone? God forbid we should have any such thoughts. "It is impossible but that offense shall come, but woe unto them by whom they come." This is just as applicable to the

THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL.

CHURCH OF THE LIVING GOD

as it is to their persecutors. If by that course of conduct we bring to pass offenses, and pull down upon our heads the judgments of God, are we blameless? Will it not be unto us the same? "Woe be unto those by whom the offense cometh." Thinking words and high sounding sentences might please some ears better than plain straightforward teachings. Faithful are the words of a friend, and it is better to be told of our faults, even in words that would, than listen to the deluded sycophant and flatterer of falsehood, until she shall transform us into beasts. And the man is not magnifying his calling who, indeed like this, will fail to warn his neighbors and warn and reprove his own soul, and hold up the prospects of the future, the goal that lies at the end of every path which is left for us to pursue. He came to this earth to learn a great lesson. And there is only one lesson that we came here to learn. The Gods said, "Let us go down, for there is space there, and we will make an earth whereon these may dwell, and we will prove them herewith, whether they will do everything that is required of them." And they who keep their first estate shall be added upon, and they who keep not their first estate shall not have glory in the same kingdom as those who keep their first estate. And those who keep their second estate shall be added upon forever and ever. What does this mean? Does it mean to listen to every voice, be it good or evil, that sounds in our ears? Does it mean to be swayed too and fro by every wind of doctrine? Listen to the Lord a little while and then turn and listen to the devil and try to serve both? Alas; we may find that for us to stride over. Ye cannot serve God and Mammon. Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. Now, what our Father in heaven requires of us is, that we do all things that He asks us to do. That is the only requirement that is made of us. And it is to be as clay in the hands of the potter. This is the lesson which we came here to learn. Our natural feelings, our human pride, our personal desires, our selfish lusts, may often rebel against this requirement, and we may flatter ourselves, poor fools that we are, when we think so, that it is the Holy Ghost teaching us to do these things which sow to the corruption of the flesh. I heard of a man who beat his wife—knocked her down in a moment of anger, and then said that he was trembling with the power of God. We are sometimes apt to deceive ourselves, as to whether we have the Holy Ghost or not. Our own spirit, or the spirit of the evil one, may sometimes attempt to palm off as the Spirit of the Almighty. For "there are three independent principles," says Joseph Smith the Prophet, "in all creation. One is the spirit of God, leading upward; one is the spirit of the devil, leading down; one is the spirit of man, subject to and susceptible of the impressions of the other two." And to all men are given power to resist the evil one and to cleave unto that which is good. And how often, as we stand, hesitating before some mighty problem, upon the brink of a great and momentous question, we hear the tinkling sound, the music of oratory that is in trying to pass himself off as the Son of God. But if we turn our hearts away from that which is so seductive, which administers to self, which prompts us to do that which will give these bodies pleasure and redound to our personal advantage, if we rebuke it and turn to the other side, we will hear the still, small voice of the Spirit of God saying, "Well done, good and faithful." For the devil is an orator. He can deceive the ear; he can transform himself into an angel of light and deceive the eye, but he cannot, as the Lord God lives, bring with him the Holy Ghost. He cannot give that which he never has received, which he does not possess. An evil tree bringeth forth evil fruit. A bitter fountain bringeth forth bitter waters. And there is a way to judge, we are told by the Prophet Mormon, that is as plain as the daylight is from the dark night. That which teaches to love God, and to serve Him, to deny self, to remember to love our brethren and our sisters; love the work of God and to be built up in Christ. He says this is the Spirit of Christ and ye may know it with a perfect knowledge; for that which persuadeth man to do good is from God; for Satan persuadeth no man to do good. Let us gaze at ourselves in this glass; ask ourselves, indeed, as the epistle says, do I in every act and word of my life set such an example as my children, my young people, may follow with honor? And if we are men, if we are women, will we follow after him who has said that he who had such a father or such a mother? Or will we, by the neglect of setting such example, or give such teaching, as will take our children down to perdition? Then rest assured, Latter-day Saints, that if your children are thrust into hell,

BY REASON OF YOUR NEGLIGENCE

or your teachings, as the Lord God liveth, you will have to go down and get them. You cannot sunder the ties between you and your posterity so easily. The hearts of the fathers must be turned to their children, and the hearts of the children to their fathers, or the whole earth will be smitten with a curse. And he is it here? I know young men and young women are growing up, after having been born in the midst of Zion, from parents who profess to be Latter-day Saints—yes, some of them of honored name and family in Israel, growing up in ignorance of the principles of the gospel; careless of their meetings; careless of their prayers; doing not those things which God commands, and doing everything almost, which he has forbidden. What will the harvest be? It means disaster, it means destruction, for those who attach themselves to Babylon with her in her fall. On the contrary, there are many who are serving God; who are humble, and who are teaching and being taught the principles of the gospel of Jesus Christ. Upon their shoulders will rest the burden and the responsibility of carrying out the great work of God, and they shall share in the glory which the others have forfeited and forsaken. This is a day of preparation.

THERE IS NO TIME TO WASTE.

no time to fritter away in folly. Recreation and amusement are necessary in their proper time and proper place. But there be those among us who do nothing but laugh and kick up their heels from morning to night, as though this were a huge joke instead of the most awful reality, and as though this earth was a playground for idleness, instead of a school to the toiler and the student. There are those who are following the ways of Babylon, the ways of the Gentiles, which are typical to the earth and the things thereof, forgetting that their mission is typical of heaven and the things thereof. "I give not unto you to live after the manner of the world," and this is a day of preparation, the voice of one crying in the wilderness, "prepare ye the way of the Lord—make His paths straight." Every valley shall be exalted, and every mountain and hill shall be made low; and the crooked paths shall be made straight, and the rough places plain." The valleys, my brethren and sisters, typify the humble and the meek, and the lowly. God thinks of you—God remembers you; and He will lift you up, and many that are first shall be last; and many that are last, many of these shall be first; for the humble and the proud, and the, that do wickedly shall fall with Babylon, when their mission here is to build up Zion. They will be brought low; they who love their riches more than the things of God will be

BROUGHT DOWN TO POVERTY.

And thus, by this grand leveling, this bringing all mankind to an equality, that the sons of God may have all things equal. And remember that equality and fraternity be the watchword of the hour. All this means is, will we be prepared for the coming of Him who will reign in righteousness, when tyrants are cast down and forgotten, when the poor and meek among men shall possess the earth as their everlasting inheritance, and they shall possess it for ever and forever. May God bless and help us all to examine our own hearts, to be just and merciful, to be kind and charitable, to be humble in spirit and pure in heart, that we may see God, in my prayer through Jesus Christ. Amen.

New York, April 7.—Roscoe Conkling passed a comfortable night, and is reported very much better to-day. His physicians are Doctors Barker and Anderson, and he is attended by a professional nurse.

IN REAL ESTATE CIRCLES.

A New Scheme—General Notes and News.

F. A. Mitchell, Esq., is enterprising in more ways than one and he is public spirited too. He has platted and cut up half the Ten-acre-block lying between Tenth and Eleventh East, and between First and Second South Streets. The design will be found in Thatcher, Blair & Co.'s advertisement. The sale of these lots will not be to Tom, Dick and Harry; and if Mr. Mitchell cannot get the right kind of purchasers he will not sell. His idea is to draw together a colony of young and steady persons, whose ideas are modest and whose tastes neat, so that the five acres may be adorned with neat cottages and prove a little world attractive and novel in itself. A road runs through the centre and an alleyway in the rear of each house connecting with the main centre. In the heart of the plat, a space has been reserved for a park and for grass and trees—a breathing spot in the colony. He also has designs for a system of water works that will supply all and prove extremely inexpensive. What he wants is neighbors who will be agreeable and who will take pride in maintaining a beauty and harmony of taste in the cottages to be erected and in the surroundings. To such a commendation as to time will be given. If Mr. Mitchell's idea succeeds, parties buying to build neat modern cottages after the style in eastern cities where land is high, will take pride in improving their grounds, and in a short time this plat will be one of the most desirable for modest residence property in the city. The location is undoubtedly one of the healthiest in the city. It is high and as pleasant as can be found. It also possesses many advantages, being near to business and on the street car lines.

REAL ESTATE NOTES.

A FIVE-ACRE lot on the boulevard was sold by Carter & Stanton yesterday for $280 an acre.

CARTER & STANTON yesterday sold a corner lot on the north bench, 10x10 rods, for $2,500.

PHIL. MARQUETS has sold a lot on the corner of Second West and Seventh North Streets to Fleischer & Co.

T. P. BUNNELL has purchased a lot on H Street, between Fourth and Fifth Streets, having a frontage of 3 1/2 rods, for $1,550.

The demand for good acreage over Jordan continues. Yesterday afternoon Carter & Stanton sold thirty-two acres at $400 per acre.

WALLACE BOWRING, who recently sold his 30-foot front on Second South for $6,000, is about to commence building a residence on Fourth South.

E. COVAY has sold to H. Hill, a lot 5x15 rods, situated on Sixth East Street, between South Temple and First South Streets, the consideration being $6,000. The sale was made by Fleischer & Co.

WHITE & SON report that business has been very good with them the past week, and they are perfectly satisfied with the outlook for the future. They have sold three lots in the Twenty-first Ward for $7,000, and the buyers will immediately build upon them. Yesterday they sold a lot on Second South Street, between Fourth and Fifth East, 3x10 rods for $5,000; one lot near the Tenth Ward Square, 5x10 rods, for $4,000, and two 5-acre lots on the east bench for $1,500.

Manti Matters.

The weather is fine, but threatening. TURTLES & Co. are making additions to their building, to meet the demands of coming business.

CONFERENCE has drawn away a large part of our leading citizens to the scene of the boom.

The district schools closed to-day with a good showing. The primary department; open the fourth term on Monday.

MR. A. E. MERRIAM's wheel will have a trial on Funk's lot next Wednesday, when the increased propelling power of the new invention will be exactly known.

YOU have heard of our postoffice robbery. Nothing new has come to light, except that the registered envelope were recently found in a vacant lot in the northwestern part of the city.

The mines in the hills northwest of town are giving better promises every day. Experts from California have been to examine the lead, and pronounce the showing to be of the best.

The carpenter work on the Temple having been completed, the knights of the jack-plane were all discharged last Saturday. The painters, however, have considerable work to do yet.

HEINE and family has come and gone and left us more in love with music than ever. He played to two full houses and will meet with a like reception on his return, which, he promised us, will be in a short time.

SINCE you heard from us last, Colleen Bawn went before two film houses, but hardly deserved so much. The two leading characters, however, in the hands of Miss Grier and Mr. W. K. Reid, were well rendered, but in the case of the majority of the other parts, the prompter had too much to say for the comfort of the audience.

SUPERINTENDENT H. S. KENN, of the Sanpete Valley, promises us a railroad without fail, the coming summer. Our boom will commence immediately upon the advent of the iron horse, but at present we are very much in the condition described by the immortal bard, when he wrote:

Once upon the poor Indians took their delights, brand and bled;

New-fished the inhabitants is whites—

With wary red.

BAKER's sledge to Moroni is loaded down every day.

MANTI, UTAH, April 6, 1888.

A Demon of the Air.

Between the hours of 1 and 3 o'clock last Saturday morning, our city was visited by one of those terrific winds which, with demoniac fury, spreads desolation at times in many parts of our country. From the indications, this whirlwind came from the northeast bounding from place to place. In Richfield it completely carried away the sheds located upon the real estate of our respected fellow townsman, Isaac K. Wright, and landed the same on the land of his neighbor south. Some other damage was also noticed in its path.—Richfield Advocate, April 4.

Brigham Briefs.

MEASLES are still prevalent. O. G. SNOW now sports a thousand dollar team and outfit.

CONSIDERABLE real estate has changed hands since our last report.

BUILDING has begun in earnest. Ten cars of lumber already received.

A. E. SNOW and T. H. Blackburn have gone drumming for the Co-op.

Twenty-three carloads of potatoes have been shipped from here this spring.

MISS ROSE JENSEN is dangerously ill. Dr. Allen has been summoned from Ogden.

SHERIFF JENSEN has sold his place south of town to Bishop Cheaney, of Centerville. The bishop will become a fixture here.

LAWYER COOMBS has removed to new quarters up town, and is now snugly ensconced in the Stratford building opposite the postoffice.

G. W. BARRACLOUGH and gang are making some internal improvements at the depot, much to the gratification of Agent Pierce and patrons of the U. P.

MARK JOHNSON, son of Leaman Johnson, of the South Ward, has his leg broken while riding a horse and driving some unruly cows on Thursday. He is progressing favorably.

KENT BROS., Riley and Warren, the famous horsemen of Dell Ranch, Bear Lake Valley, called on their way to Conference. They never fail to find a ready market for horses in our town.

R. C. WATKINS, architect and builder, formerly of Ogden, has faith in the future of Brigham, and is now located here permanently. Dick is also an accomplished musician, and has already identified himself with the brass band and theatre orchestra.

THE prosecution of Ed. Chase, by our own beloved, for attempted rape, was rather premature. By the way, James Rumor says we are to have a new Commissioner, vice Carrington. It is about time rumor of this kind began to assume tangible shape if the appointing power would continue to command respect.

ELIZABETH HOOK lost her second and last surviving child at Call's Fort on Monday. One short year ago the family numbered four happy and contented souls; now only the motherless widow remains to bear the burden of this deep affliction. The body was taken to Oxford, Idaho, and placed by the side of the father and little sister.

SHEEP out west are said to be dying faster than during the cold weather. The grass is just beginning to show above ground, so that the bleaters smell but cannot taste it. The result is that they go on a regular stampede for grass, and soon run themselves down, which is not a difficult thing to do in their present weak and starved condition.

DEPUTY WHITSTONE was a passenger on the south-bound accommodation this evening. Now, Mr. Editor, please scrutinize the foregoing carefully and if there is anything in this irrelevant allusion to his royal nibs, or if the mere mention of his sacred name, in the leading newspaper of the Territory, be considered libelous, please omit this item, because we really do not care to be made a party defendant in a suit of damaged reputation. It is growing monotonous.

SOME time ago B. M. Young had a piece of land jumped a few miles north of town, and of late has had considerable to say about the evils of this acquiring ill gotten gain. Yesterday B. H. Jones and L. Snow, Jr., perpetrated a huge joke upon poor Morris in causing him to believe that the soulless usurper and land jumper had actually fled upon the very spot of ground on which his palatial house stood, and the chances were he would lose his home. Morris made fur fly for a time, hunting up deeds and transfers and it was some hours before he could be reached and quieted down with the assurance that it was all a hoax.
